The Rutgers Coaching Staff

Harvey J. Harman, Head Coach

ENTERING his twelfth season as head coach of Rutgers football, Harvey J. Harman has compiled one of the finest college records in the nation. Since he first came to the Banks of the Raritan in 1938, he has piloted eleven Scarlet teams to 66 triumphs in 95 games.

Past president of the American Football Coaches Association, Harman has been associated with the sport since he was 13, first as a player and later as coach and administrator. He played at New Castle (Pa.) High School and Peabody in Pittsburgh. Entering the University of Pittsburgh in 1918, he immediately won a starting tackle berth under Glenn S. (Pop) Warner. He missed the starting lineup only once at Pitt.

He earned additional letters in track and was president of his junior and senior classes. Harman received his A.B. degree from Pitt in 1922 and began his coaching career at Haverford that fall. Meanwhile, he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania until he earned a Master's Degree in government.

Harman remained at Haverford until 1930, when he became athletic director and coach of football and track at Sewanee, the University of the South. A year later, he went to Penn, where he remained as coach of football until he resigned in December, 1937. His appointment at Rutgers followed.

His first season at Rutgers won him a permanent place of honor in Scarlet football history when his grididers defeated Princeton in the famous 20-18 triumph which dedicated the new Rutgers Stadium. It marked the first Rutgers win over Princeton since 1869. The only loss of the first season was to N.Y.U. and his second Scarlet eleven lost only to Brown. Single losses have marred otherwise spotless records of three of his Rutgers teams.

Following the outbreak of World War II, Harman laid aside his coaching togs and replaced them with Navy blue. Leaving Rutgers in the spring of 1942, he served as director of athletics at North Carolina Pre-Flight in Chapel Hill, was transferred to a similar post at Iowa Pre-Flight, and later saw combat duty in the Pacific aboard one of the nation's largest carriers. He was a full commander at the time of his return to Rutgers late in 1945.

Harman holds the academic rank of professor in the Division of Physical Education at the State University. An active and popular figure in civic and religious affairs, Harman has been deacon of the Second Reformed Church of New Brunswick and has served on many local committees. He is past president of the Navy V-5 Association and a member of Kiwanis, Phi Gamma Delta, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, and the University Club of Philadelphia.

Arthur A. Matsu, Backfield Coach

SENIOR member of the Rutgers coaching staff in tenure, Art Matsu has been in the department of athletics since 1931. He now holds the rank of associate professor in physical education. Matsu is in his tenth season as varsity backfield coach, an assignment he shares with Eddie Masavage. Art starred as a player at William and Mary in football, basketball, and track. After graduation he was freshman grid coach at his alma mater before coming to Rutgers in 1931. He was an assistant varsity coach of the Scarlet until 1936, coached the freshmen that season, and was back with the varsity in 1937. Matsu coached the freshmen again in 1938 then served two years as director of athletic publicity. He received his present varsity assignment in 1944.

Edward S. Masavage, Backfield Coach

WIRY Eddie Masavage has been associated with Harvey Harman almost continuously since 1931, first as a player, then as a coach, later in the Navy and again as a member of the Rutgers coaching staff. Masavage played two years of varsity football under Harman at Penn. Upon his graduation in 1933, he joined Harman's staff as varsity backfield assistant and coach of Penn's 150-pound varsity. He came to Rutgers with Harman in 1938 and coached the backfield until he entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. Eddie was stationed with Harman at North Carolina Pre-Flight, then went to sea aboard the aircraft carrier Essex for 18 months. Following his discharge with the rank of lieutenant commander, he returned to Rutgers to team with Art Matsu as backfield coach of the Scarlet.

Alexander Sabo, Line Coach

ONE of Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite," Al Sabo is in his 14th season of coaching at Rutgers this fall. Sabo is a "home town" athlete from New Brunswick. He came to Rutgers as freshman line coach after his graduation from Fordham in 1936. He worked with the varsity the following season, returned to the freshmen in 1938, and became Harman's end coach in 1940. Like Harman and Masavage, Al entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. He rose to the rank of lieutenant commander while serving in French Morocco and returned to Rutgers in time for the 1946 season. Before the war, big Al was a professional baseball catcher with the Washington Senators from 1936-38.

Otto H. Hill, End Coach

CENTER on Harvey Harman's 1941 eleven, Otto Hill is starting his seventh season as a grid coach. After a stint in the Air Force, he returned to Rutgers in 1946. He won Rutgers letters in football and lacrosse and played service football. He coached the junior varsity in 1947 and 1948 and has been head coach of the Scarlet freshman teams for the past three seasons. He received his varsity assignment this year.

Frank R. Burns, Freshman Coach

ALL-EAST quarterback on Rutgers' great postwar teams, Frank Burns returns this fall as freshman coach after two seasons as head coach at Johns Hopkins. A product of Roselle Park, Burns played professional football and was assistant fresh coach at Rutgers following his graduation in 1949. He accepted the Baltimore assignment in 1951.

Rutgers Athletic Administration

Harry J. Rockafeller, Acting Director of Athletics

REGARDED as one of the best known figures associated with Scarlet athletics, "Rocky" entered Rutgers in 1912. He starred in four years of football, basketball, baseball, and track. After serving in the war and in business for several years, he returned to Rutgers in 1924 as graduate manager. He was named head coach of football in 1927. In four years his teams won 19 and lost 16 games. In 1930, he resigned as coach in favor of administrative duties. In 1932, he became 150-pound varsity coach and his lightweight elevens were undefeated in 18 games, winning Eastern Intercollegiate titles in 1933, 1934, and 1935. He coached varsity football during World War II, compiling a record of 14 wins, 10 losses and one tie in four wartime years.

George E. Little, Director of Athletics (On Leave)

LEADING figure in athletics for more than 30 years, George Little has had a great record as player, coach, and administrator. In charge of Rutgers athletics since 1931, he was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1912 after a brilliant football and track career. Starting his coaching career at Cincinnati, he went to Miami (Ohio) University in 1916. He left to serve overseas during World War I and returned as director of athletics. He went to Michigan in 1922, becoming head football coach in 1924. A year later, he was appointed director and head football coach at Wisconsin. He resigned as coach in 1927 to devote his full time to administration. Little remained at Wisconsin until he accepted his Rutgers position in 1931. On leave of absence for the past year, he is serving as Executive Secretary of the National Collegiate Football Hall of Fame.

Richard L. Voliva, 150-Pound Varsity Coach

STAR in football and track and a National Intercollegiate wrestling champion at Indiana University, Dick Voliva coached those sports at Montclair State Teachers College after competing in the 1936 Olympics. He was an Army major during World War II. Since he came to Rutgers in 1945, he has been varsity wrestling coach and has served as 150 pound grid coach for the past five years. His wrestling teams have compiled some of the best records in Rutgers' mat history.

Alexander G. Sidar, Jr., 150-Pound Assistant Coach

FORMER Rutgers lightweight football star and varsity wrestler, Alex Sidar has served as assistant coach in both these sports for the past few years. An assistant professor in physical education, Sidar also helps coach track.

Scarlet Player Notes

1953 Football Captain

DONALD DUNCAN, senior. Captain of the Scarlet in 1953, Don Duncan is the strongest man in the veteran backfield. A two-way fullback with equal ability on offense and defense, Duncan was New Jersey's "outstanding high school athlete" in 1949. A 200-pound six-footer, he rates as one of the East's most versatile backs. Last fall, he carried 56 times for an average gain of 4.8 yards a play. He punted 42 times for a 38.7 average—second best in the East. He caught four passes for 71 yards and a touchdown. He is a strong blocker, a bone-crushing linebacker, and handles the PAT chores, as well as calling defensive signals.

Ends

JAMES DAVIS, senior. Unhampered by injuries, Jim (Choo-Choo) Davis should be the Scarlet's top end this fall. A rangy 200-pounder from Hackensack and one of the team's fastest men, he is a veteran of two-way football. A defensive whiz and a clever receiver.

EDWARD DUDA, senior. A veteran wing, Ed was developing fast as a defensive starter last year before sidelined with injuries at Penn State. Could be a regular at left end.

BRUCE JOHNSON, junior. Rutgers' biggest and best defensive end last year, Bruce must adjust to two-way ball. He is rugged and keen on defense. Son of a Rutgers botany professor, he is a pitching ace in baseball.

THOMAS MOFFETT, junior. Used sparingly last year, Tom has the speed and agility to become a regular this season. Operates at right end.

DONALD SHWEDO, senior. A versatile letterman, Don could operate anywhere from guard to end but probably will see most action on the left wing.

PAUL STITIK, sophomore. Best of the sophomore crop, this 190-pound North Bergenite could challenge for the left end assignment.

Tackles

FRED ADAMS, junior. A junior varsity player in 1952, big Fred will make a strong bid at left tackle. He has plenty to offer in his six-foot, five-inch, 225-pound frame, which makes him biggest man on the team.

JOHN BILLHEIMER, junior. Another junior varsity graduate, "Bull" stacks up as a prime reserve at right tackle.

BRUCE BRANTLEY, sophomore. A rugged 200-pounder, Bruce is one of several sophomores adding to the abundance of tackle material. He is a Jackson Heights, N. Y. product.

NUNZIO COLLARENO, senior. One of the most improved players on the squad last year, Nunzio can hold down a spot at either guard or tackle. He is a rough and rugged operator from Lackawanna, N. Y. He studies engineering.

WILLIAM DOLIBER, senior. Another versatile senior who can go both ways at either guard or tackle, Bill came along strongly last season.

EDWARD EVANS, sophomore. A former All-County tackle from Caldwell, Ed was a freshman standout and will prove a valuable reserve.

RICHARD HEMMER, junior. Lightest of the tackles at 190-pounds, Dick makes up for it in fire and fight. He is fast, aggressive, and a fine all-around performer. He hails from Butler High.

JAMES MARCO, sophomore. Though lighter than most of the tackles, Jim performed impressively as a freshman and much is expected of him. He is fast and aggressive.

LESLIE MILLER, senior. Though spreading his bulky 230 pounds over only six-feet, one-inch of height, big Les moves fast and hits hard. He rates a starting job at either tackle or guard. A South Jerseyite from Paulsboro.

JOHN OHNEMUS, sophomore. Biggest of the sophomore tackles, this Ohio import will see frequent action at left tackle. He is a rugged performer who can go both ways.

Guards

RAYMOND BEHRENS, junior. A home town product of New Brunswick High, Ray was most impressive in spring drills and could rate a starting position.

KENNETH BOSSOW, junior. A powerful fireplug guard who stands only five-eight, Kenny is first in line at right guard, although he failed to letter in 1952.

ROBERT HOWARD, sophomore. Tops among the freshman guards last year, Bob is watch-charm size but is fast, rugged, and clever. Strong at blocking and capable on defense.

JOHN (BY) O'HEARN, junior. Only a junior, "By" will play his third varsity season this fall. A 210-pound former All-Metropolitan guard from Columbia High, he rates among the East's outstanding linemen. He is a crushing blocker on offense and has been a regular linebacker since coming to Rutgers. He adds power and experience to the thin guard ranks.

Centers

JOSEPH DADDARIO, senior. Facing his third season as a varsity regular, Joe is among the steadiest players on the team. A hard-working veteran who never lets up, he is equally capable on offense and defense. An outstanding blocker, he played his high school ball at Egg Harbor.

JAMES FENNELL, sophomore. Older brother of quarterback John, Jim provides some strong support at the pivot slot. He is strong both ways.

ROBERT TAYLOR, sophomore. A product of Crafton, Pa., Bob was the top freshman pivot last fall and will see plenty of action with the varsity this year.

Quarterbacks

DONALD DREIER, senior. "Butch" missed most of last season because of an emergency appendectomy but returns in great shape this fall. Compact and solid, he is a good ball-handler, a fine passer, and explosive runner.

JOHN FENNELL, junior. Hampered by injuries last year, John never hit his stride. He is the Scarlet's top passer and will develop this year.

WILLIAM GATYAS, sophomore. Top prospect among the sophomore backs, Billy played both quarterback and halfback as a freshman. He could challenge for the starting job. He is a slick passer, a steady punter, and a brilliant open-field runner.

Halfbacks

RICHARD BROOKS, sophomore. A fine breakaway runner and pass receiver, Dick may see considerable reserve action at left half. He is from Braintree, Mass.

BRUCE CLYMER, senior. Steadiest defensive halfback on the squad last year, Bruce will have to adjust to two-way ball but he is a real battler.

ANGELO IANNUCCI, junior. Right behind Don Duncan at fullback last year, Angie has been moved to right half, where his 190-pounds will provide added power. A fast and shifty runner, he should sparkle.

STEVE JOHNSON, junior. Another local New Brunswick product, Steve showed signs of greatness with his breakaway ability last year. He will see plenty of action and create plenty of trouble for the opposition. He is an excellent defensive operator, too.

ROBERT KELLEY, sophomore. A slippery 175-pound dash man, Bob is a strong threat to the outside. He operates at right half and hails from New Canaan, Conn.

RONALD MASTROLIA, junior. Mighty Mite of the Rutgers backfield, Ron won a starting role last year, despite packing a slim 150 pounds. He is clever and rugged and a stampeding breakaway runner. He played at Hackensack High.

RICHARD MILLER, senior. A steady reserve for two seasons, Dick will challenge for the starting job at left half. He has played both ways in the past.

ROBERT REDMAN, junior. Bobby failed to live up to the promises of his freshman year last season but could break out as one of the Scarlet's top threats at left half. A 180-pounder, he is quick, slippery, and can go the distance.

JOSEPH TRIGGS, senior. Tricky hips and climax speed make Joe a top contender at right half, if he is unhampered by injuries. He is an excellent defensive safetyman, as well.

Fullbacks

THOMAS CAPPELLETTI, junior. A most versatile performer, Tom started out as an end, switched to defensive halfback last year, and developed into a promising fullback this spring. He is a man to watch.

ANTHONY DeSANTIS, sophomore. A plugging linebacker as a freshman, Tony packs 190 solid pounds and the speed to move it in the right places.

DONALD DUNCAN, senior. See "1953 Football Captain" at head of this section.

ROBERT MOSHER, senior. Operating primarily as a defensive back last year, Bob will convert to two-way duty this fall. He is fast and rugged.

WILLIAM O'NEIL, senior. Although he failed to letter last year, Bill gained some valuable varsity experience and will prove a strong reserve.

HISTORY OF RUTGERS — 1766 - 1953

Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, began as a struggling colonial college before the Revolution. Founded in 1766 by Dutch pioneers, Rutgers was originally called Queens College under a charter from King George III of England. The young college's existence was threatened by the Revolution, but growth followed that conflict, just as unprecedented expansion was experienced after the last World War.

Rutgers was given its present name in 1825, after generous gifts had been received from Colonel Henry Rutgers, a New York philanthropist. Forty years later it was designated the Land Grant College of New Jersey, the liberal arts course was enlarged, and courses leading to bachelor degrees in agriculture and engineering were added.

In 1902 a ceramics department was established, New Jersey College for Women with its own New Brunswick campus, was founded in 1918; the School of Education added in 1923; and in 1925 the Extension Division for non-degree education and the School of Journalism were established. The College of Pharmacy was added in 1927. University College, degree-granting evening division, was established in 1934, and Newark University was merged with Rutgers in 1946. In 1945, the State Legislature brought all divisions of Rutgers within the designation of the State University of New Jersey.

A Bright Orange Glow

Charley Caldwell, Princeton's 15th coach of football, has been the most successful mentor in Tiger grid history and his power-packed forces should continue that record this fall. Caldwell is the first to develop six straight "Big Three" champions. His record of 46 wins in 67 games includes an epic upset practically every season. The Tigers have won 30 of their last 31 games.

Things Look Brighter for Kelley

Bolstered by the return of 27 lettermen and the products of an undefeated freshman team, Brown looks for better things this fall as Al Kelley faces his third season. A former All-East end from Cornell, Kelley entered the coaching field after World War II. He coached previously at Cornell and Yale.

RUTGERS ALL-AMERICANS

Two Rutgers football players have achieved All-American stature. Chosen at end in 1917 and 1918 was Paul Robeson, prominent concert singer who recently became a controversial political figure. Perhaps the greatest Rutgers player of all-time is Homer Howard Hazel, selected All-America end in 1923 and All-America fullback in 1924 by Walter Camp. Hazel was elevated to football's highest honors with his election to the National Football Hall of Fame in 1951. Hazel will be the principal figure at the Hall of Fame Award Game between Rutgers and Colgate in the Rutgers Stadium on October 31, 1953. Several other former Scarlet players received All-American mention and a score earned sectional honors.

Big Ed of Rose Hill

Edward Danowski starred at halfback for Fordham under the Iron Major, Frank Cavanaugh, in the early Thirties and was captain of Jim Crowley's first Ram team in 1933. An All-American, he played pro ball with the Giants from 1934 through 1939, completing 307 of 345 passes. Retiring as an active player, he entered service and rose to the rank of Lt. Commander by the time he left the Navy in 1945. He returned to Rose Hill in 1946 and has produced some fine Ram teams. Renewed vigor at Fordham promises bright results this fall.

Labar, Raiders' Success Secret

Making his debut on the Colgate scene last year, youthful Hal Lahar coached the Red Raiders to one of their best seasons in recent years. Lahar starred on the line for Oklahoma and played professional football with the Chicago Bears and Buffalo Bills. His coaching career began at Arkansas in 1949 and he was line coach at West Virginia for two seasons before coming to Colgate. Defense is his strong point and he wins games with it.

RUTGERS — FOOTBALL'S PIONEER

Rutgers pioneered American intercollegiate football in an historic game played with Princeton on November 6, 1869, on College Field, the plot of ground where the present-day Rutgers Gymnasium stands in New Brunswick. Football in its embryonic state bore striking if rustic resemblance to its modern version. Playing under primitive rules with 25 men on each team, the original Scarlet "eleven" defeated the invading Princeton squad, six goals to four. The challenge for the first game was issued by Rutgers students in hope of avenging a 40-2 baseball defeat by Princeton in 1866. The Tigers accepted the challenge and rules were drawn up. Employed in the first game were crude rudiments of such later mayhem as the flying wedge, sleepers, and the first incident of a player kicking the ball toward the wrong goal.

Leopard Getting Claws

Entering his second season at Lafayette, Steve Hokuf hopes for better things, with the picture brightened by fine freshman prospects. Hokuf entered coaching at Colorado School of Mines in 1936 and served at Wyoming from 1937 through 1942, when he entered the Navy. After the war, he was line coach of the pro Brooklyn Dodgers, served at Columbia in 1949 and 1950, and completed a year at Pittsburgh before coming to Lafayette.

Rip the Ringmaster

Entering his fourth season as Penn State's head coach, Rip Engle has one of the strongest teams in the East. A Dick Harlow product of Western Maryland, Engle gave Brown some of its toughest postwar teams before heading for State College. After ten years in high school coaching, Engle joined the Brown staff in 1942, became head coach in 1944, and left for Penn State in 1950.

THE SCARLET'S HOME GROUNDS

Rutgers Stadium is the heart of a million-dollar athletic plant situated on the University Heights campus. The Stadium area embraces 270 acres of gently rolling hills. Facilities include a nine-hole golf course, several baseball diamonds, six playing fields, and two practice gridirons.

The Stadium seats 23,000. The field is of turtle-back construction and is surrounded by a track modeled after the Los Angeles Olympic oval. One of the nation's best tracks, it has eight lanes on the curves and backstretch, with a 12-lane, 220-yard straightaway.

Stands are of reinforced concrete with wooden seats. A modern field house runs the length of the East stands and contains dressing rooms and offices. A well-equipped press box crowns the West stands, providing for more than 100 writers with telegraph and telephone service. Both ends of the press box have glass enclosed broadcasting booths, topped by photographers' platforms.

Maestro Lou Little

Lou Little, one of the master strategists of football, has been coaching Columbia's varsity since 1930 and ranks, in point of service, as the dean of the Ivy League coaches. Little was graduated from Penn in 1920, after gaining national recognition as a tackle in 1916 and 1919. Between those seasons he served as an officer in the American Forces in France. Returning, he completed his college course, played and coached professional football, then went to Georgetown in 1924 as head coach of football. Two years later, he was named director of athletics and he held both positions until 1930, when he went to Columbia. Little's coaching career has been highlighted with outstanding victories and stunning upsets. One of his earliest was the 1934 triumph over Stanford in the Rose Bowl. In 1947, his Lions snapped Army's great winning streak.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

Reproduced above is an architect's drawing of the proposed National Collegiate Football Hall of Fame. Tentative site for the grid shrine is on the heights to the North of the Rutgers Stadium. Rutgers was selected as the location for the Hall of Fame because America's first intercollegiate football game was played on the Rutgers campus on November 6, 1869, between Rutgers and Princeton.

Newest tradition on the Rutgers campus is the annual Hall of Fame Game, inaugurated between Rutgers and Brown in 1950. Rutgers and Colgate will meet in the fourth annual Hall of Fame contest here on October 31, 1953. The game will be an official Award Game authorized by the Football Hall of Fame—one of a series to be conducted nationally. Homer Hazel of Rutgers will receive official recognition of his election to the Hall of Fame at that time.

George E. Little, on leave of absence from his post as Rutgers' Athletic Director, serves as executive secretary of the Hall of Fame. He succeeded the late Arthur L. Evans of Syracuse, the shrine's first secretary and one of its founders. The office of the Hall of Fame is located on the Rutgers campus.

All inquiries concerning the National Collegiate Football Hall of Fame should be directed either to Mr. Little or to William H. MacKenzie, Sports Information Office, Department of Public Relations, Rutgers University.
